

Setting a Process Goal for Job Search Success

Source: <https://www.corridorcareers.com/job-tips/attitude-job-search-success>

Job Searching as a process has many elements:

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. Learning what job you want | 5. Connecting with companies or networking |
| 2. Researching Opportunities | 6. Applying for a job |
| 3. Researching Companies with opportunities | 7. Interviewing/Negotiating |
| 4. Identifying your matched skills and expertise | 8. Accepting a job |

Step 1: Identify Job Search Goal.

I would like a job in _____ so that

Job industry

I can _____ by _____
Job objective Time frame

Step 2: Decide what process to focus on, and brainstorm goals.

I want to feel:

(joy, motivation, fun, energized)

Activities/Actions I like:

(meeting new people, talking, texting, learning, reading, researching, reconnecting with old friends, learning new skills, refreshing old skills)

Step 3: Set a process goal:

I will

job search process

So that I can

feeling objective

by

Time frame

Bonus step: Identify triggers.

This can be as simple as 'When I'm on LinkedIn' or after I have my coffee'

Triggers for process